When we landed in Caylon we knew but one person on the island -our good friend, David Hunter, of Glasgow. When we left our list of acquaintances was lengthened into hundreds, many of whom we can never forget. David H. has developed into a aplendid christian man, who is "letting his light chine" in the Ozient, as his noble brother Richardie doing in Sectiond. It will be remembered by those who care to follow our course, that Richard Munter invited us to Glasgow, and patiently endured a good deal of persecution there, for having hefriended us. His younger brother came out to Caylon, soon after the meeting there, and as I think I have praviously mentioned, we discovered his whereabouts through our friends the Mackenzles of Futtabgurh, who visited Caylon last summar, and made his acquaintance. His aid, in the meetings in Colomba, was simply invaluable. His friend and failow cierk iu the great firm of John Walker & Co., ie a eon of Ray. M. Greyeon, whom we know at Musecorie. These splandid young men are heart and hand in every good work that turns up in Colombo. We are so proud to have their ardent friendship, and can never cesse to remember their assiduous attentions. God bless them.

The Sutlej is a new versel of enormous tonnaga, and vary fleat; hut we miss tha wondrous standiness of the Robilia. She rolls faarfuily and pitches headiong into the heavier seas, in such a rectiess fashiou, as to ship a very unusual amount of salt water; making it very wet forward when there is a rough sea. And already we are reminded that the piacld waters of the Bay oberged; with the stiff headwind trying, in of Bengai are supplanted by something vain to put out the feebly sputtering, suimore in keeping with the conventional ideas of the "sea that can not rest." "I think," says he, "you used a good financier for your next Governor, one who knows how to provide a revauue without oppression to the people, sufficient to carry ou the legitimate expenses of the State." A copy of this letter coming to the notice of Governor Knott, he concluded that it was meaut as a fling at him and he eat himself down and proceeded to skin the worthy comptroller alive, in an open letter, which, It cost over a million and a haif dollars. for eatire, ridicule and humor is only equalled by his famoue Duluth speech. He makes fun of the Judge's bad English scores him for his notorious haukering af. ter office and with a keen-bladed kuife disthrough the Judge's production. It is an exceedingly severe tho' good humored castigation, wluding up with au extract from the Judge's famous letter to Mouroe Mitchell, colored, in which was this sentences "Give my love to your wife and tell Audy Higgins howdy." Coming from a man who holds the high and dignified office of Governor of Kentucky, the "open letter" mey be considered in had taste, even though tha provocation was great and the Judge had iaid himself so "wide open" for the attack. The points mede by Gov. Knott are peculiarly sharp and incielve, but with the Judge's friends the letter will do him uo herm, es they already begin to say that Letcher, formerly of Lexington. "we are for him more than ever since the politicians are against him." It is all very fuuny and the letter will produce a broad daughter and sent to the penitentiary for laugh all over the Commouwealth.

THE Louisville Commercial of Friday contained this choice paregraph: "Perhaps you don't know that Col. Bill Welch, of Stauford, who is big enough and brainy enough to know better, ie houest in hie belief that Kentncky would be better off if she did not have a rellroad nor a newspaper within her horders." Calling the Colonei's attention to it, we said, "Of course you entertain no such extraordinary sentiments se those." With a smile, he repiled: "I entertain the opinione attributed to me only when talking to a particularly offensive newspaper or reilroad man. In other and calmer momente I might be willing to tolerate a few truly-good, morai and democratic papers, and perhaps one cheap railroed if it rau from this point to Crah Orchard. WE agree with the Capital that the democratic Senete made a sad mistake when it feiled to concur in the House resolution to appoint experts to investigate the accounts of the State departments. The republican point delegates to the Superior Court Coupapers and stump speakers have inslnuated for some time that rottenness existed in tha management of our finances and they here led many people ignorantly and otherwise to believe it. When the slander could be so easily refuted and when a fallure to order au investigation looks like fear of the result, the blunder was almost criminal $110. and will be used by the republicans for all It is worth.

IN MEMORIAM.

R. Frank Suddnth was born Nov. 17th, 832, died May 27th, 1886.

In slucere love and deep corrow I write this memorial of this good man. In him we had the full "amurance of a mau." His pure, deep, profound mind was only known to a few. With proper culture ha would have been an ornament to any station in life. In his very humor there was always instruction. He could tell you of every important avent of our country's history for the last SO years; of every important Congressional measure, by whom introduced, its principal advocates and opponents Yet in the fece of all this, looked upon human greatness as a very little thing; threw away ambition, sat down at his own comfortable and hospitable fireside and would

"I am a true laborei; l owe no man hate; envy uo man happinese; glad of other meu' good; am content with my farm."

It was my good fortune to know him for fifty years. I always had a place juside the eauctuary of his pure, houest heart. Between us there always existed a congeniallty, a oneness not common among men. He lived, he died with clean hands; his clear, open, candid counterance and eye that looked you equarely lu the face with a genial smile was never known to biush or blanche only lu shama and confession for others. He concelved what was right end dared do it all; he could not he falee; deception be scorned as gentlemen scorn dishonor. He was the very kindest of busbands, and while he made absolutely no dieplay of effection, hie wife and children were roses in his eyes. As a husband he was a credit to his wife; as a father a credit to his children; and it was a credit to me, a credit to eny man to have him for his friend. To his dear stricken ones I will

"Our lives are songs, God writes the words, And wa set them to music at pleasure, And the songs grow glad, or sweet, or sad,

The legislature just closed seems to have been under a similar impresion, as that body, after great deliberation, recently page. ed a hill under the provisions of which, it le supposed, not only that sufficient revenue will be raised to meet all demands against the Treasury as they accrue, but that it will lead to a reduction of fully 50 per cent. in the rate of taxation long before your in--Capt. CIRCUS MUSICIANS.

THE DIFFICULTIES OF SELECTING MUSIC FOR THE PERFORMANCE.

Time and Tano Misst Be Sultuble to the Character of the Work in the Iting-Men and Itoraes That Can Not Stand Any Change,

"Once a man gets into the life of a circus band," maid the leader, "and accustomed to its hard work, he likes it, and very few care to leave it again for the casual and chance engagements of unattached musicians. Even if they were so fortunate as to get places in regular thatre orchastrns they would have their duil season each year, and, when at work under union rates, would only get $250 a performance, out of which they would have to pay their personal expenses, so that they would be no better off than in a circus. Then, there is no small attraction in the travel, excitement, open-air life and variety of a circus Some of our circus band men go on playing until they are quita

"It is the duty of the leader to select and arrange the music for his band in a circus just the same as any other band, but the circue leader has much the hardest work to do. In the first place be must have such an immense quantity of music, as you will readily conceive. But, still more difficult for hlm, if he does not thoroughly understand the circus business, is the selection of the particular airs that will fit to the various performances in tha ring. That would not be so hard to do if there was only ona ring and one performance in it at a time, but when you have from three to liva various performances going on simultaneously you don't find it so easy to pick out music that will trump in or follow suit with them all. TIME AND MUSIC TO SUIT.

"If there are two or three riding acts simuitaneously, it will be comparatively easy to fit them, but when you have thinge going on upon the ground and in the air at once, you must be very careful or you will throw your borses or your people out. Then you have to know which one of the lot is most important, to which you will have to play, making the others secondary, but serving them as well as possible at the same time. For instance, when the stars are doing their really wonderful trippla trapeze act, though there are three other acts going at the same time. I have to play for the stars and must band has to play pianissimo, for that is the aignal that he is about to speak a word of direction or waruing to the girls, and his voi e must be heard. And when one of their astounding tests has been performed, the band must break out with a fortissimo crash, blanding with the roar of applause from the audience. No matter where the writer of the music may have put his di-minuandos or crescendos, I have to play it that way, whether the piece becomes unrecoguirable or not, whether it may sult the other performers or not, and whether people say 'how badly the band playe that air' or not, for it may be a question of limb, if not of life, to have it done in just that way.

"Oue thing that gives necessarily a cortain sameness to much circus music is the compulsory emphasis of notes in regular rer not demanded at al sical expression, but very requisite for marking the time for the horses in a manege act, or some other rlding. If you do not thus sharply accent the time, the best trained horse is llabie to be all broken up and make a failure of his performance. When I was with Hangler I many a time had to go with my violin to the ring at il a'clock in the morning to play by the hour near a horse that was undergoing training, so as to familiarize tho animal with the air to which he would be required to perform in the ring. Hengler would have a horse in training, in that way, as much as three months steadily before trusting him in the ring, and he was very careful never to allow the time to be made clowar or more rapld, to suit the horse, but kept regular, antil the beast fell naturally into the step

PLATING THE "SAME OLD TUNE." "Here there is no such careful training, and we have to adapt the time to the horses, to a certain degree, but still the marked accent must be kept, and that is enough to make a very atrong family resemblance between times; enough to make many people my 'same old tune.' The elaphants and the trained stallions require to have always the same music, or if not exactly the same, then so very mear to it that the animals can not recognize any difference. Of course we do work in some changes on tham, but not abrupt ones, for the American public will not stand the same thing all the time uo matter what the preforences of the animals may be, When I was in England, seven years ago, Hengler's band was playing the sama music for manege and trick acts that they had played for seven years before, and I have no doubt thay are playing the came pieces now. That would be likely to breed a riot

a this country, I think

Many trapeze and other specialty performances have music of their own, and when we can accommodate them by playing it we always do so. Generally, however, their munio is arranged for atring bande to be used in theatres and variety shows and we could not play it without rearrangement, which would be too much trouble so long as we can supply other music quite as good. The lady who does a fine trapeze act and the iong slide on the inclined wire, has some beautiful Spanish music, and as it sults very well for the triple trapeze act, which is en at the same time, we play it. Now and than we work in a new piece on her, and she a very good-natured about it, always say-'all right;' but after two or three days she is sure to come and say, 'Please, Mr. Robinson, let me have my own music again. She can work better with tha music to which she is accustomed. The trapeze performers also have their own music for their special work. Mme. Dockrill was very particular about her music, and used always to sing with the band, but of course in a tone that the audience could not hear, when riding in the ring. She no doubt got into the habit while training her horses la winter, accuslonging them to the measure of music for their movements. Jim Robinson, the great tureback rider, had a certain set of quadniles that he always insisted upon having played for him, and he would not ride to mything else. Flah, ou the other hand, though he had quite a fonduass for music and used to practice on the violin in his dressing room a good deal, did not seem to eare at all what was played for him in the ring. Stickney and Melville ware very par-duniar to have each season newsets of quaddiles and other melodies for their acts -

Growth of the Silk Manufacture. At the close of 1873 there were only 150 firms engaged in the eilk manufacture, in all its branches, in the country, of which thirty were in Naw Jersey, aixty-one in New York, twenty-five in Pennsylvania, twenty-two in Connecticut, and the others scattering. The total capital invested in the industry was only $1,988,877; the total products were valued at $19,884,874, and tha operatives numbered only 10,051. By 1879 the figures given for the whole country aix years before little more than covered the slik interests of Paterson alone, which then had io? firms and corporations engaged in it, employing 12,599 hands, with $9,555,500 invested, and produced $12,172,965 worth of goods that year. - Chicago Herald.

An Ocean Oll Well Discovered. Capt. Edan of the Brillsh schooner Storm King, bound from Utilla to New Orleans, reports passing over a submarine mineral oil spring, bubbling and ripping all around the vessel, and extending out over 160 to 200 yards. This was in latitude 25 degrees 43 minutes north, longitude 86 degrees 20 minutes west, about 20 miles southeast of the passes. At II a m, they were over the spring proper, and at 11:30 a m, outside the circumference of the oil circle. It is supposed that this epring is the oil cargo of a foundered vessel, which, breaking through the casks, caused this peculiar marine freak, or that it may be a natural phenom-enon.—Scientific American.

The blue grass craze and the boiling water remedy for dyspepsis are now succeeded by the cider cure for gout and rheumatism. which, strange to say, is receiving the sanction of some of the best physicians in Europe. Cider must in such cases be drank sweet, and a celebrated chemist gives the following formula to prepare this cheap and agreeable beverage. "Clder should be made of good sound apples and then left to ferment in the barrel. When the farmeniation has almost cessed it should be racked off into a smaller barrel by a ciphon (4 rubber tube) from the bung of the first barrel into that of the second. In this way your second barrel will contain cider almost clear. Let it settle for two or three days, bottle in champagne bottles, cork, wire or fasten the cork with strings, and lay the bottles on their sides. If the clder is bottled too soon, or befere fermentation has almost ceased, it will burst the bottles. If this is likely to happen, stand them up again for almost a month; then lay them down again. In this way you will keep your cider sweet for more then a year. It will have plenty of "fizz" in it and makes an excellent drink, portleniarly in summer." The new cure has already many adherents, odd a beautiful resort la about to be opened in Devon-hire, one of the loveliest counties in Ecgland, where the trastment can be carried on under the most advantageous circumstances, as la the casa with the celebrated graps cure establishments on the Khise and Moselle. A correspondent in the London Times claims that he has been cured of rheumatism of long standing by the use of eider, and it would be well to try the experiment in the midet of some of our orchards, estnated in pleturesque sites, where the invalids can parene their routles of trestment to the best advantage.- [San Francisco Chroniele

For Instant Use

As a reliable remedy, in cases of 4 roup, Whooping Cough, or sudden Colds, and for the prompt relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pecioral is invaluable. Mrs. E. G. Edgeriy, Council Biuffs, Iowa, writes: "I cousider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most importent remedy for home use. I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adnits." John II. Stoddard, Petersburg, Va., writes: "I have never found a medicine equai to

for the prompt relief of throat and lung diseases peculiar to children. I consider it an absolute cure for all such affectious, and am never without it in the house." Mro. L. E. Herman, 187 Mcreer st., Jersey City, writes: "I have always found Ayer's Cherry Pecioral useful in my family." Il. T. Johnson, Mt. Savage, Md., writes: "For the speedy cure of sudden Colds, and for the relief of children afflicted with Croup, I have never found anything equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most potent of all the remedies I have ever used." W. H. Slickier, Terre Hante, Ind., writes: "Ayer'a Cherry Pectoral cured my wife of a severe lung affection, supposed to be Quick Consumption. We now regard the Pectoral as a household necessity." E. M. lireckenridge, Brainerd, Minn., writes: "I am subject to Bronchitis, and, wherever I go, am always sure to have a bottle of

with me. It is without a rival for the cura of bronchial affections." PREPARED BY hoon ever bestowed upon man is perfect braith, and the true way to in-ure health ly to purify your blood with Aver's Saranpartild. Mrs. Eliza A. Ciongh, 34 Arlington st., Lowell, Mass., writes: "Every winter and spring my family, including myacif, use acveral bottles of Aver's Sareaparilia. Experience has convinced me that, as a powerful purifier, it is very much superior to ony other preparation of Saraparilla. Aii persons of ecrofulous or consumptive tendencies, and especially delicate children, are sure to be greatly benefited by its usc." J. W. Starr, Laconia, lowa, writes: " For years I was troubled with Scrofuious complaints. I tried several different preparations, which did me fittle, if any, good. Two bottles of Ayer's Sursayarilla effected a complete cure. It is my opinion that this medicine is the best of the day." C. E. Upton, Nashna, N. H., writee: "For a number of years I was troubled with a lumor in my eyes, and unable to obtain relief until I commeuced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I imve taken several bottics, am greatly honefited, and believe it to be tile hest of blood purifiers." R. Harris, Creel City, Ramsey Co., Dakota, writes: "I hava been an intense sufferer, with Dyspepsia, for the past three years. Six months ago I began

THE BEST
